About the tutor team...

Simon Gilliver is the founder and Artistic Director of the Bishop's Stortford Sinfonia. Simon grew up in Bishop's Stortford and teaches flute and piano in the area as well as performing recitals. Simon is a freelance orchestral flutist and teaches improvisation at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama.

Holly Playle is a founder member and Managing Assistant of the Bishop's Stortford Sinfonia. Holly read music at the University of Manchester before returning home to Sawbridgeworth and is now a busy freelance double bass performer and teacher (of many instruments!).

Emma Oliver-Trend is a violinist and Outreach Project Manager with the Sinfonia. Emma studied music at RWCMD and Dartington College of Arts. Emma is conductor, arranger and Artistic Programme Manager with the National Orchestra for All, has recently started the Ware Community Orchestra and teaches violin.

Please do help us to grow this Summer School by emailing Emma any feedback about this first course; positive comments are helpful for promoting it more widely, and constructive comments are welcome and will help us improve it for next time. Please do help us spread the word and get more people to join so that this year's participants become the proud founder members of a wonderful, huge Youth Orchestra Summer School for Bishop's Stortford.
